Current Tableware Trends Hammered

Brisbane, Queensland -- GIBPAT Pty Ltd will be showing its recently launched Hammered Metal Tabletop Collection at Sydney's Fine Food/Hotel Australia show, 24-27 September 2007. Designed to bring pizzazz and individuality to the tabletop and buffet, the collection also offers a cost effective way for restaurateurs and F&B managers to tailor the current trends in metal/glass/chinaware combinations and individual buffet portions, to their dining areas.

"We've actually had trouble keeping samples in the showroom, because as soon as we take them to a customer, they want to keep them," says Bill Sinclair, Director of Sales and Marketing.

The Hammered Tabletop Collection comprises both organic and geometric shapes in two hammered finishes. The various sized dishes look equally at home as an accent to a table setting or showing off on the buffet. The hammered finishes are designed to compliment both glass and chinaware, or can be used separately for a different look.

This collection can be used very effectively to display individual food portions on the buffet, echoing the current Australian trend. This also assists with HACCP, portion control and aesthetic control.

Two standout items are a large spiral-like food display, and a bread bowl complete with ascending spiral for bread sticks. Other interesting items include a deco-styled double walled wine cooler set that produces no condensate, even after hours of use, various condiments containers, a high tea stand with glass plates, and a bud vase.
